About Us
SPI is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization that supports access to quality seed, training, and agricultural resources to improve food security and household income through vegetable production.

Our Programs
Since 1998, our work has powered over 1.8 million gardens with over 400 community-based partners by distributing over 16 million seed packets in over 90 countries. Our programs focus on hunger and poverty reduction, gender equality, improved health, climate resilience, sustainable communities, and crisis recovery.

Become a Partner
SPI is a well-positioned partner to help you achieve your Corporate Social Responsibility goals while strengthening employee and customer engagement. We can work with you to develop a program that fills the needs of your company. The three main ways to become a sponsor include:

- Sponsor a project as a charitable grant,
- Donate a portion of sales revenue,
- Become a general sponsor of SPI programs.
